

Bob Ash

Bob Ash founded his company, Life Lessons, in 1995. Since then, he has provided training to over 1,000 organizations and businesses - that's over 280,000 people!

Prior to 1995, Bob served in several positions in education. He was a janitor, teacher, principal, and superintendent of schools. He also played a few years of professional baseball.

Bob created Life Lessons to ensure that companies, businesses, organizations, and schools would have the chance to offer their employees the sort of presentation that would be helpful and memorable. Each Life Lessons event is tailored to meet the needs of the individual client.

Bob's keynote presentations and seminars train, inform, and motivate on a wide variety of management and organizational behavior topics.

In his presentations, Bob Ash strives to provide people with practical, solid information to challenge them to look at their own behaviors to see if any need adjusting and to provide a learning experience that is enjoyable to attend. Bob thinks laughter should be part of every presentation as well as practical ideas and tools to improve what it is we do in life.
