

Tom Carnegie

Tom Carnegie has been called the greatest ambassador for the Indianapolis 500 who ever lived.

A true gentleman, Tom was honored in 2006 by his P.A. crew and friends in celebration of his retirement after 61 years as the track announcer for the Indy 500 races.

Tom says it's important to enjoy the situation and not let what you're doing get so serious that you forget to have fun.

Crown International Senior Microphone Engineer Bruce Bartlett presented Tom with a plaque and microphone at his celebration
