

Larry Csonka

In 1968, Larry Csonka was the Miami Dolphins' first round draft pick. He led the team to three Super Bowl appearances, earning All-Pro and Pro Bowl honors along the way.

Csonka and halfback, Jim Kiick, were affectionately known as "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" and they were the mainstays in the Dolphin's perfect 17-0-0 season in 1972. Larry earned the MVP award of the Dolphins's Super Bowl VIII victory over the Vikings.

In addition to his legendary football fame, Csonka was the host of the 1990-93 American Gladiators. And, he hosts and produces an outdoor TV adventure program.

Larry Csonka travels the country as a sports humor / motivational speaker. His presentations relate his dramatic personal experiences and are heavily laced with his special touch of humor.
