

Greg Gumbel

Greg Gumbel is legendary in the world of sports broadcasting.

Gumbel's broadcast career began in 1973 and has included tours of duty at Chicago's WMAQ-TV, ESPN, Madison Square Garden Network, CBS Sports, and NBC Sports.

His play-by-play resume includes the NFL, NBA, college basketball, Major League Baseball, College World Series Championship, and he was the voice at various times for the New York Yankees, the New York Knicks, the Philadelphia 76ers, the Cleveland Cavaliers, and the Seattle Mariners.

As a host, Gumbel has covered the NFL and college football, Major League Baseball, the Daytona 500, the World Figure Skating Championships, the 1992 Winter Olympics, and the 1996 Summer Olympics. Greg also served as the prime time anchor for the 1994 Winter Olympic Games.

Greg is also a 3-time Emmy Award winner.

When not behind the microphone, Greg enjoys speaking. During his presentations, he shares his motivational thoughts, ideas, and experiences from the world of sports.

Greg's speaking engagements always receive rave reviews and he is a favorite with meeting planners.