

Mark Spitz

One of the world's most celebrated amateur athletes of all time, Mark Spitz captured the admiration and awe of the world by winning an unheard of, and unprecedented, seven gold medals at the 1972 Olympics in Munich.

Considered the greatest Olympic athlete of all time, Spitz was voted Athlete of the Century in water sports and one of the six greatest Olympians ever by Sports Illustrated in 2000.

After the '72 Olympics, Spitz made movies and commercials and went into business.

Mark has endorsements for Xerox, Kodak, Bausch & Lomb, John Hancock Financial Services, General Motors, General Mills, Swatch, and many others.

As a highly requested speaker, Mark stresses the work ethic and desire needed to be successful in business and life.